DETAILED ACTION

Specification

The specification has been checked to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors. However, the applicant's cooperation is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant may become aware in the specification.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 7 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Carpenter (US Pat. 5,416,676).

Carpenter discloses a light assembly (Fig. 1) comprising a fluorescent tube bulb (14) having electrical poles (24, 25) act as electrode/cathode deposited inside of each end of the bulb and extending from the interior to the exterior for coupling to connecting means via bi-pin cap ends (16, 18), wherein the bi-pin cap ends (16, 18) as supporting means for suspending the electrode.

However, Carpenter does not disclose electrodes are cold cathodes.

It would have been an obvious matter of design choice to select a electrodes being coated as a cold cathode fluorescence as claim invention since cold cathode fluorescence lamp are well known in the art that provides a long life service due to its less current consumption and high tolerance at low temperature.

Art Unit: 2821

3. Claims 7-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Abernethy (US Pat. 4,107,581).

Abernethy discloses a light assembly (Figs. 6-8) comprising a fluorescent tube bulb (62) having electrical conductive rod (67) act as electrodes/cathodes deposited inside the bulb and extending from the interior to the exterior of the bulb for coupling to connecting means via bi-pin cap ends (68, 69), wherein the bi-pin cap ends supporting means for suspending both electrodes (Figs. 7 and 8).

However, Abernethy does not disclose electrodes are cold cathodes.

It would have been an obvious matter of design choice to select electrodes being coated as a cold cathode fluorescent lamp as claim invention since cold cathode fluorescence lamp are well known in the art that provides a long life service due to its less current consumption and high tolerance at low temperature.

Citation of pertinent prior art

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicants' disclosure.

Latassa et al. (US Pat. 4,347,460) discloses compact fluorescent lamp assembly.

Grossman et al. (US Pat. 5,564,818) discloses lighting system.

Holzer (US Pat. 6,307,316) discloses fluorescent lamp with replacement light element.
